Collecting Vintage Materials

Jennifer is currently collecting a variety of vintage materials to include in future installation projects, initially to be used as hexagons in a mixed media quilt. Preferred materials include: vintage fabric, preferably with embroidered, knit, crocheted, or other similar details; vintage threads (embroidery or sewing); vintage photographs (digital or physical), letters, and postcards. If interested in contributing, please email: Jennifer@JenniferLommers.com with a short description of materials, and an “intake form” with submission instructions will be provided to record information about the donation and any item history that should be cataloged. Any donations used in the art will include donor recognition (if the information is included during intake) when the art is shown in a public setting.

Collecting Hexagons

Jennifer is currently collecting hexagons made with any mixed media materials, as chosen by the donor/artist - preferably representing a fiber arts craft or skill acquired through a personal connection, or representing a personal story. At the time of collection, an “intake form” will be provided to record information about the hexagon and donor. When creating, please refrain from using copyrighted patterns (e.g. knit or crochet by other designers). Jennifer provides free patterns at JenniferLommers.com/Community. Email: Jennifer@JenniferLommers.com with any questions or for donation instructions. Donations may be used in current or future mixed-media quilt projects. Showings of the finished piece will include donor recognition (if included at time of donation) when in a public setting. Hexagons must be sized to 3 inches at their widest as presented here.

Mixed Media Collage Workshop

Jennifer is currently offering a Summer workshop using vintage materials in small collages with a focus on stitched mark-making. No experience required. Location: Corl House - Corvallis, OR Sign-up online:
